

Virtual facilitation

The main benefit for face-to-face training is that the learners have the ability to be actively involved in shared thinking, exploration and debate.

Have you been asking yourself these questions lately?

Can this be done using a digital platform?

How do we make it engaging and fun?

What is the best platform to use?

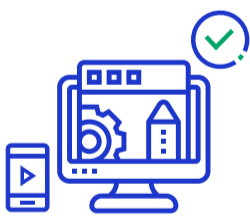

How do we manage the session? These digital meetings can be so difficult to control.

The training is normally run over a full day – that's a lot of time on a call, how do we compress our programme without compromising the objectives.

Trainiac can help you solve for these questions...

We can help you with...

Understanding your digital platform of choice.

Ramping up your facilitators' capabilities in virtual process facilitation.

Redesign existing programmes and design new programmes.

Programme design for the virtual classroom that is visually stimulating and keeps your learners engaged.
